The first thing that comes in my mind, school is a place where we can nurture the next generation and develop our future by providing them with education and life skills based on ethics and principles.

Welcome to our first newsletter! We are thrilled to share with you the latest happenings, achievements, and upcoming events at IBGS. Our school community continues to thrive, thanks to the collective efforts of our dedicated staff, enthusiastic students, and supportive parents.

A school newsletter plays a crucial role in the communication and engagement strategy of any educational institution. The whole objective is to create vital communication between the school and its stakeholders, including students, parents, teachers, and promote transparency. It ensures that everyone is informed about important updates, events, and changes within the school. With this thought in mind, we plan quarterly newsletter to have a quick glance at the school activities.

We believe that education is a collaborative effort involving teachers, parents, students, and the wider community. Together, we will create a supportive and inspiring environment where everyone feels valued and empowered. My best wishes for an enriching and joyous year!
